

OrigiNation Dance Studio

Roxbury, Massachusetts

This project involved the design of a dance studio for inner city youth using a state of the art "floating" dance floor reducing injury to the legs or knees when performing. The dance studio has a reception area that receives students and showcases the accomplishments of the school and individual accolades of the students. There are also dance locker rooms for preparation of the students for classes. This is the first newly built dance studio in the Boston Inner City Area in 30-40 years.
